Outdoor Art FAQ

Q. What is Outdoor Art?

A. Outdoor Art can add the same sophistication and beauty to your outdoor living area as traditional works of art bring to the indoors. These water and UV resistant artworks are designed to withstand the different elements of Mother Nature. From the hot California and Arizona deserts to the bitter cold of the upper Midwest, our Outdoor Art line provides durable artwork that is perfect for anywhere in your home.

Q. What is the difference between Outdoor Art and the regular line?

A. A special canvas coating is applied to the artwork, protecting it from weathering elements and the sun. A water based coating is applied to protect the digital print and UV inhibitors protect the canvas from fading when exposed to Ultraviolet rays. The stretcher bars are treated with UV resistant preservative finish that is designed to repel water and protect the wood against decay.

Q. What weather conditions and climates is my Outdoor Art protected against?

A. Outdoor Art is weather and UV resistant and can withstand most weather conditions and climates. It is protected against rain, snow, humidity, moisture, and sunlight.

Q. How long does it take to produce Outdoor Art once it is ordered?

A. As with the entire product in our line, Outdoor Art items are made to order and can ship within four weeks of acceptance of order.

Q. How do I clean my Outdoor Art?

A. You should only use a damp cloth to wipe down the surface gently. Any cleaners, solvents, or chemicals should never be used on this product.

Q. Does Outdoor Art have a finish?

A. Outdoor Art is only available in a matte finish which is UV resistant.
